Dion unveils green plan

Grit leader proposes $15.4B in carbon taxes to be offset by rebates

Liberal Leader Stéphane Dion has launched the first round of the next election campaign with an ambitious strategy to fight global warming with hefty increases in energy costs coupled with Robin Hood-style tax rebates aimed at easing poverty.

Dion yesterday pledged that the $15.4 billion in new taxes on fossil fuel energy would be more than offset by tax cuts to individuals and corporations, including initiatives specifically aimed at helping lower-income households such as a new $350 child tax credit.

"We need to make the Canadian tax regime more progressive so that we help middle- and low-income Canadians be part of the solution to the climate change crisis," Dion said as he kicked off his "Green Shift" strategy on Parliament Hill

Under the Liberal plan, Canadians could expect to pay more to heat their homes, fill their barbecue tanks and even fly, as the new tax hits jet fuel. Dion figures his plan would cost the average family $250 a year, a figure that seems low since the party estimates natural gas bills alone could rise by at least $228 a year.

But for low and middle-income Canadians, Dion argues that proposed tax cuts would more than compensate for the higher energy costs, "in some cases significantly more, especially for those people with children."

Still, the insults were soon flying between Dion and Prime Minister Stephen Harper.

"Mr. Dion's policies are crazy. This is crazy economics, it's crazy environmental policy. He doesn't even have clear environmental targets in his plan," said Harper, who was in Huntsville, Ont., to announce that the 2010 meeting of G-8 leaders would be held in the cottage country town.

Previewing what promises to be a vicious electoral clash, Dion said "Mr. Harper decided to be insane in his reaction to this plan."

The Conservative strategy of belittling the Liberal leader and his carbon tax plan even before it was released is the kind of "scare-mongering" that voters find unacceptable, Dion said. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE who takes the heat?

» The Liberals' proposed carbon tax would gradually increase taxes on fossil fuels. While gasoline would not be hit with increased levies, consumers would over time face higher taxes on heating oil, propane, natural gas and electricity from coal-fired plants.

» But the plan claims 700 large industrial emitters, such as power plants, will actually be paying the bulk of the new carbon taxes, and the hefty tax revenue will thus be returned to Canadians.

Police seek suspect in attempted abduction

By TRACEY TONG
Metro Ottawa

Ottawa police are investigating a "suspicious incident" where the driver of a van allegedly followed a teenaged girl in Vanier yesterday morning.

At about 9:25 a.m., a 15-year-old girl was walking on Lajoie Street near Blake Boulevard when she saw a white van following her.

The driver of the van allegedly asked the girl to get into his vehicle but she refused. The girl continued walking and began to run when the van continued to follow. She then saw a man in a nearby parking lot and began to run towards him.

The van then turned around abruptly and was last seen travelling westbound on McArthur Avenue.

"To be that persistent is unnerving," said Staff Sgt. John McGetrick with the Sexual Assault/Child Abuse Unit, adding the victim in this incident did the right thing.

"She drew attention to herself."

This year, there have been between 15 and 20 suspicious incidents of a similar nature, for the most part, involving teenagers, McGetrick said.

"At this point, we have nothing to compare it to, but it certainly is very unnerving behaviour."

The driver is described as an English-speaking white male, between 50 and 60 years old with grey hair, full beard and good teeth. He was wearing a white T-shirt and a black baseball cap. The van is described as older model white Ford Econoline.

Anyone with information is asked to contact the Ottawa Police Service Sexual Assault/Child Abuse Unit at 613-236-1222 extension 5944 or Crime Stoppers at 613-233-8477 (TIPS). -tracey.tong@metronews.ca

Transit workers honoured

Supervisor, driver get top awards for helping woman

By TRACEY TONG
Metro Ottawa

"All too often, the city's bus drivers get flak for everything from getting off schedule to failing to call out stops.

But yesterday, an Ottawa bus driver was honoured for helping a young woman who was found unconscious last September.

Raymond Richer received the 2007 OC Transpo Transecure Employee of the Year award yesterday morning.

He was one of 16 transit employees honoured for going beyond the call of duty.

On September 3, a young couple told Richer that a young woman who appeared to be unconscious was lying face down in the elevator at the Orleans Park and Ride.

When he found the woman, she was not breathing and had no pulse.

He contacted the OC Transpo control centre and asked them to call 9-1-1.

He turned the woman on her back and as he prepared to administer CPR, he saw her move. She was taken to hospital.

"It's an honour to be recognized, but when you see someone in distress, you have to help them," said Richer, who will mark 28 years with OC Transpo next month. "You do something to help and life keeps on going. As long as she's all right, that's what matters. "I'm glad I was there to help."

OC Transpo supervisor Russ Hill, who took Richer's call for help, was also awarded the Supervisor of the Year award.

"I was really surprised," said the 29-year employee. "I didn't expect it. You just look at this as part of the job."

"Drivers are often the eyes and ears of OC Transpo," said Alex Cullen, chairman of the city's Transit Committee.

The drivers help injured people and people in need, help police track down suspects and sometimes, spot crimes before they occur, said Alain Mercier, the city's director of Transit Services.

» Other drivers were honoured for such things as catching impaired drivers, calling in fires and serious incidents to police and reuniting lost children with their parents.

Biplane added to museum

By TIM WIECLAWSKI
Metro Ottawa

In the 1930's and 1940's, the golden age of aviation, there were more than 50 Waco Cabin Biplanes registered in Canada. They were bush planes which flew people and supplies to remote areas of the country.

Yesterday, the only airworthy Waco Cabin Biplane in Canada landed in the collection of the Canadian Aviation Museum.

Christopher Terry, the retiring president and CEO of the Canada Science and Technology Museum Corp said they started speaking with the owner, Dr. John Tener, about donating the plane to the collection more than 10 years ago.

"We don't have a cabin biplane of this type," said Terry. "The fact that this is a generic Waco type with a long history and association with Canada makes it an absolute natural."

It was the one biplane that made a good bush plane, said Stephen Payne, curator of aeronautical technology at the Canada Aviation Museum.

"That's one reason I was interested in adding it to the collection."

Record cash spread out

Many programs receiving piece of United Way fund

By TRACEY TONG
Metro Ottawa

Initiatives and programs dealing with children and youth, new Canadians and immigrants, seniors, people with disabilities, individuals and families in need and neighbourhoods and communities are all getting a piece of the $25.5 million United Way/Centraide Ottawa fundraising pie.

More than 100 community agencies and 200 programs will get support from the record-breaking 2007 community campaign, officials announced last night.

Although the campaign brought in $29.8 million, the amount was reduced after fundraising and administration costs of 14 per cent and the loss of unfulfilled pledges.

Still, the amount invested this year exceeded the 2007 total by $1.6 million.

The six areas will receive a total of $16 million.

Children and youth will benefit from $4.5 million split among 74 programs.

Immigration support will receive $1.4 million invested in 14 programs.

Twenty-eight seniors programs will get $1.7 million and 29 programs for people with disabilities will get $2.5 million.

Thirty-seven programs for individuals and families in need will receive $4.3 million to help people regain stability in their lives and to provide safety and supports for victims off violence.

The amount of money that organizations get vary, said vice-president of community services Eileen Dooley.

"But all of them are significant," she said.

"The generosity of this community is humbling," said United Way/Centraide president and CEO Michael Allen.

for volunteerism

» $1.8 million will be spent on 18 programs that increase volunteerism and civic engagement in the community.

Dragon boat event 'growing'

By TRACEY TONG
Metro Ottawa

With more spectators, more paddlers and more teams hopefully raising more money for more charities, the Ottawa Dragon Boat Race Festival sets sail today.

To run through Sunday, the festival at Mooney's Bay — the biggest of its kind in North America — is expected to attract over 65,000 spectators from across Ontario, said event spokeswoman Ashley Brambles.

More than 5,000 participants from Calgary and Halifax and everywhere in between will paddle on 190 teams.

"That's more teams than we've had in the past," she said. "We're continuing to grow. The word keeps getting out and the more people that know about it, the more people come out.

"With the culture and the tradition and with the boat allowing so many people, it encourages participation and makes for a fun weekend. When you get 5000 paddlers together, you have lots of energy."

> « We're continuing to grow. The word keeps getting out and the more people know about it, the more people come out. »
> Event spokeswoman Ashley Brambles

That energy can also be put to other uses, including checking out live music, multicultural performances, artisan tents and a children's area on site.

Organizers hope to raise $250,000 for eight charities.

Admission to the event is free for spectators.

Men face 58 more charges

By TRACEY TONG
Metro Ottawa

Two men face 58 additional charges in relation to 26 incidents after facing charges in relation to three commercial break and enters earlier this month.

In early June, police charged two men each with three counts of break and enter and one count of theft of a vehicle in relation to three west-end commercial break ins that occurred in May. The new charges are the result of a six-week investigation by police.

John Vincent McGee, 45, is charged with 19 counts of break and enter and five counts of break and enter with intent to commit an indictable offence, among other charges. Glenn Paul, 36, also faces numerous charges.

Both will appear in court by video remand this afternoon.

»news In Brief

» PROGRAM Yesterday, the city's Community and Protective Services Committee voted to change the name of a program that supplies needles to injection drug users to the Clean Needle Syringe Program. The proposal to change the name comes in the wake of a report which concluded the city should continue its unrestricted distribution of needles, but commit more resources to collecting discarded needles.

'A healthy start'

Reducing child poverty could benefit all: Report

key recommendations

» The report said that to tackle child poverty Canada should examine: income redistribution policies; healthy early learning and childhood development; and targeted interventions to support children in low-income families.

Reducing child poverty will benefit the health of all Canadians, the country's chief public health officer recommended in his first annual report on the physical and mental well-being of the population.

"Every dollar spent in ensuring a healthy start in the early years will reduce the long-term costs associated with health care, addictions, crime, unemployment and welfare," Dr. David Butler-Jones wrote in his report on the state of public health in Canada.

Tabled on Wednesday by Conservative MP Steven Fletcher, parliamentary secretary for health, the report highlights the role that social, economic and environmental factors play in physical and mental health.

"While some health challenges can be related to our genetic makeup, evidence shows that Canadians with adequate shelter, a safe and secure food supply, access to education, employment and sufficient income for basic needs adopt healthier behaviours and have better health," Butler-Jones wrote in the introduction. Taliban routed near Kandahar

Afghan and mostly Canadian NATO-led forces killed or wounded hundreds of Taliban yesterday in an offensive to clear the militants from the outskirts of Kandahar city, the provincial governor said.

NATO confirmed in a statement issued in Kabul that Taliban fighters — including many believed to have escaped during a mass jail break last week — had been routed from positions among the orchards and farms of Arghandab district, northwest of Kandahar city.

Afghan soldiers and NATO's International Security Assistance Force attacked enemy positions, having used helicopter gunships at the start of one of the biggest battles in Afghanistan in recent years.

Massive force set to defend Olympics

Special unit of 100,000 aims to deter terrorism

Beijing announced yesterday that a special force nearly 100,000 strong was already on alert for terrorists, reinforcing the impression security will dominate the last 50 days of preparations for the Olympics.

With the venues completed and the 42 Olympic test events wrapped up, Beijing organizer-in-chief Liu Qi put security firmly at the top of the agenda in a speech this week reported on the official Games website.

"As the Olympics are approaching, officials and the public must understand the importance of security and social stability for the Olympics," he said.

Selling your life away

When Ian Usher's partner of 12 years left him broken-hearted, he decided the best way to move forward was to auction his whole life, in one job lot.

From Sunday, June 22 for one week, Usher's life is up for sale on EBay with the package including his $420,000 ($405,000) three-bedroom house in Perth, Western Australia, a trial for his job at a rug store, his car, motorbike, clothes and even friends.

Usher, 44, told Reuters he had been inundated with emails from all over the world since he put his life up for grabs in March. REUTERS

Rape 'a military tactic'

UN looks at way to stop violence against women

» UN officials have said the problem is currently worst in eastern Congo. But a recent survey of 2,000 women and girls in Liberia showed 75 per cent had been raped during the West African country's civil war.

UN Security Council nations demanded yesterday that warring governments and factions act to halt violence against women, saying rape was no longer just a by-product of war but a military tactic.

U.S. Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice, who chaired part of the session, told the council the world had now recognized that sexual violence during conflicts went beyond individual victims to affect nations' security and stability.

Echoed by a string of speakers, UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon told the 15-nation council the problem had "reached unspeakable and pandemic proportions in some societies attempting to recover from conflict."

Maj. Gen. Patrick Cammaert, a former UN peacekeeping commander, told the meeting: "It has probably become more dangerous to be a woman than a soldier in an armed conflict."

Speakers identified former Yugoslavia, Sudan's Darfur region, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Rwanda and Liberia as conflict regions where deliberate sexual violence had occurred on a mass scale.

A U.S.-sponsored resolution set for a vote later in the day by the council called sexual violence "a tactic of war to humiliate, dominate, instill fear in, disperse and/or forcibly relocate civilian members of a community or ethnic group." REUTERS

Fired Nortel chief charged

Dunn, two top aides accused of criminal fraud

A former Nortel Networks chief executive and two of his lieutenants were charged yesterday with fraudulently misstating financial results as the telephone equipment maker struggled to right itself after the tech bubble burst in 2001.

Aside from ex-CEO Frank Dunn, who faces seven counts, former Chief Financial Officer Douglas Beatty, and Michael Gollogly, Nortel's former corporate controller, also face charges, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said.

The three were also accused of making false entries and omitting materials in Nortel's books.

The alleged fraud occurred after a meltdown in technology stocks that saw Nortel fall from its perch as an investor darling amid billions in losses and thousands of layoffs. REUTERS

Germans march on

Down powerful Portugal to move into semifinals

EURO2008

Germany's Bastian Schweinsteiger scored the first goal and set up two more as his team beat Portugal 3-2 in their Euro 2008 quarter-final yesterday.

Two goals in four minutes midway through the first half from Schweinsteiger and Miroslav Klose put them on top and captain Michael Ballack gave them a 3-1 lead just past the hour.

Nuno Gomes had pulled one back for the battling Portuguese just before halftime and substitute Helder Postiga put late pressure on the Germans when he made it 3-2 but Germany held on.

In the semifinal in Basel on Wednesday, Germany will meet the winners of today's match between Croatia and Turkey.

"I'm so happy we won," said Schweinsteiger. "We're in the top four and we've got the best team, in my eyes. We saw we can play football, we can fight and German virtues are still there."

Germany coach Joachim Loew, banned for one match, will be back for the semifinals.

Stamkos a guarantee to go No. 1

Lightning looking to replace Richards

The NHL will hold its annual Entry Draft this weekend at Scotiabank Place in Ottawa, and the Tampa Bay Lightning will get the first shot at this year's pool of talented youngsters.

The Lightning have the No. 1 overall selection for the third time in team history, and for the first time since taking centreman Vincent Lecavalier in 1998.

Unlike last year, there is little question as to who the first pick will be come tonight in Ottawa. The Lightning have all but stated that they will take 18-year-old Sarnia Sting centreman Steven Stamkos with the first overall selection, but it's anybody's guess as to how the rest of the draft will unfold.

Stamkos

Stamkos is the top-rated North American skater by NHL Central Scouting, and has solidified his standing as the best available player in this year's draft. He led the Sarnia Sting with 105 points during the 2007-08 OHL season, notching 58 goals and 47 assists in 61 games. He also upped his stock by posting one goal and five assists for gold-medal winning Team Canada at the 2008 World Junior Championships.

The Lightning are hoping the arrival of Stamkos will help ease the loss of pivot Brad Richards.

Draft day generally sees a fair amount of trades and swapping of positions. The Ottawa Senators have the 18th overall pick.

Axe may fall on Jays' bosses

YORK REPORT

MARTY YORK
marty.york@metronews.ca

The Blue Jays will fire their general manager and/or manager within a week.

That was information forwarded to me yesterday by sources close to club owner Ted Rogers. They're fed up.

The Jays have lost five consecutive games and languish in the cellar of the AL East. Manager John Gibbons appears to have run out of answers and general manager J.P. Ricciardi appears to have run out of excuses.

Possible replacements for Gibbons: Jays third-base coach Brian Butterfield or ex-Oakland A's manager Ken Macha.

Possible replacement for Ricciardi: Former Jays president Paul Beeston, who's retired, lives in Toronto and never has been involved in on-field operations. But, hey, that won't necessarily make him any worse than Ricciardi.

» Ricciardi, incidentally, has foolishly initiated a bizarre war or words with, of all people, Cincinnati Reds outfielder Adam Dunn.

For details, read my latest MLB Report at www.metronews.ca.

» Canada's national cricket team is about to receive a major boost, courtesy of your tax dollars.

The Canadian Government will announce funding at a news conference this morning and, sources tell me, the team will pick up a nice chunk of cash. Mind you, any amount would be nice after what the team has received from the government in past decades — nothing.

> « "If I'm an American, I can't own a radio station here." »
> Toronto Argonauts co-owner Howard Sokolowski

Word is Scotiabank also will supply the team with between $200,000 and $300,000 through a sponsorship arrangement, another first for Canadian cricket.

At cricket's World Cup in Barbados last year, Canada won only one game. With significant finances behind it now, though, anticipate considerably better results at the next World Cup in India, in 2011.

» No NBA club is more active on the trade market, we're told, than the Raptors, who'll try to make a big splash before next Thursday's draft. They're dangling several players, none more aggressively than T.J. Ford ... Ford isn't the only point guard available, though. Others available include the Portland Trailblazers' Jarrett Jack, the Milwaukee Bucks' Mo Williams and the Indiana Pacers' Jamaal Tinsley ... The Denver Nuggets intend to deal ex-Raptors centre Marcus Camby and the $22-million US he has left on his contract ... The brother of Los Angeles Lakers centre Pau Gasol will be a high choice in the draft. Marc Gasol also is a centre. He's a Spanish native but lives in Memphis and played high-school basketball there after his brother joined the Grizzlies years ago.

» The CFL is now openly paranoid about an NFL invasion and is lobbying for government intervention.

"If I'm an American," Argonauts co-owner Howard Sokolowski said, "I can't own a radio station here."

Marty York has been a groundbreaking sports columnist and broadcaster in Canada for decades.

»sports In Brief

» MLB The Seattle Mariners fired manager John McLaren yesterday, the latest management change for the team with Major League Baseball's worst record. The Mariners said bench coach Jim Riggleman would serve as manager for the rest of the season. McLaren's dismissal comes three days after the team fired general manager Bill Bavasi and replaced him with Lee Pelekoudas.

» MLB The Cleveland Indians acquired veteran catcher Sal Fasano yesterday from the Atlanta Braves for a player to be named later. The 36-year old backstop has made the rounds throughout his 10-year major league career, as the Indians mark the ninth club he's been a part of.

» NBA Memphis Grizzlies guard Juan Carlos Navarro signed a five-year contract agreeing to return to F.C. Barcelona in his native Spain yesterday, ending his tenure with the team, and the NBA, at one season. Navarro previously played for Barcelona from 1997-2007.

Return to her roots

Singer Jewel goes country on latest album

By BRIAN TOWIE
for Metro Ottawa

Perfectly Clear, the latest album from singer-songwriter Jewel, above, is now available in stores.

Profile JEWEL'S GONE country — but then she says she always was.

The Grammy Award winner and judge on NBC reality singing contest Nashville Star argues her newest album, Perfectly Clear, isn't so much about a reinvention of her sound as it is a return to her roots. Released earlier this month, the album is full of Loretta Lynn-influenced narratives, swaying acoustic melodies and piano accents — a touch of city slicker sophistication to her largely self-produced down-home sound.

Jewel Kilcher penned much of the record growing up in rural Alaska, playing honky-tonk roadhouses with her dad and living on a ranch with no running water, a coal stove for heat and an outhouse for a toilet.

"I grew up writing this," says Jewel. "This is my life and my history. I didn't wake up and become someone else or get a new sound. I've never felt like I've had to pick a team or something. I've liked what I've always liked, which is storytelling."

The album belies Jewel's past incarnations, and maybe for good reason. Her 2003 album 0304, commercially successful though considered a misstep by critics and purist fans, fused big band with urban dance beats. It was certainly a far cry from 1995's Pieces Of You — one of the most successful debuts of all time. Jewel says the album was branded as alt-pop by a music industry riding the crest of the grunge rock tsunami caused by the success of bands such as Nirvana and Soundgarden, and should have been considered a country work if anything.

Now at 34, Jewel has mixed memories of her time at the top. As a 19-year-old living in a car in San Diego, she wasn't ready for the ruthless realities of life at the top of the charts. She recalls frequently fighting uphill battles for creative freedom (which might explain away 0304.).

> « This is my life and my history. I didn't wake up and become someone else or get a new sound. I've never felt like I've had to pick a team or something. I've liked what I've always liked, which is storytelling » Jewel

"I'm not trying to be a martyr or anything, but it is something to go from being homeless to being rich overnight. I was just not prepared for that at all. I don't think anyone would be. I certainly had rock n' roll clichés happen," she says. "The good news is that the more you're in control of everything, the safer you are."

Lesson learned — after more than a decade as a major label artist, Jewel says educating herself on the business has led her to a position where she can do what she wants, when she wants, and she warns up-and-comers to do the same.

"It's a complicated business, and it's not set up to help the artist win. It's set up for everyone else to make money off of you," she says. "The industry runs artists into the ground. You see these talented kids and they're broke. It's heartbreaking, and it happens over and over."

The Chicken & Rib Cook Off takes place on Sparks Street June 18 - 22.

The carnivore's carnival is back on Sparks Street this summer for another smoky, saucy, lip-smacking good time. Each year in June, Sparks Street Mall is transformed into a sauce-filled spectacle inviting world class grillmen and women from across North America to flex their Barbecuing skills against one another in an attempt to win over Ottawans' taste buds and be crowned "Ribber of the Year." Traditionally known as SKIP WORK, EAT RIBS WEEK in the Capital, Ottawa's International Chicken & Rib Cook Off is a great way to kick off the summer festival season, and hands down the tastiest event of the year.

Wolf Parade

Album: At Mount Zoomer
Label: Sub Pop/Outside
Release Date: June 17

THREE YEARS AGO it was impossible to have a conversation about Canada's music scene without mentioning Wolf Parade. Expect the same for 2008. Wolf Parade's sophomore effort is a brilliant collection of catchy indie pop, complete with buzzing synths, bright guitars and complex arrangements. Thankfully, it's more measured than the band's first release – the vocals are more in control, the keys are less frantic, it's not as Modest Mouse-like — making this the best record of year so far. Coldplay

Album: Viva La Vida or Death And All His Friends
Label: Parlophone/EMI
Release Date: June 17

ACCORDING TO THE hype, the very life of the EMI Music empire rests on the success or failure of this highly anticipated album. Never fear. Despite the best efforts of producers Brian Eno (U2, Peter Gabriel) and Markus Dravs (Arcade Fire), this is still very much a Coldplay album. Better than X&Y, but not quite up to A Rush Of Blood To The Head. Another 10 million records will be sold, EMI will survive and Chris Martin will continue to be able to support children with funny names. GRAHAM ROCKINGHAM

Emmylou Harris

Album: All I Intended To Be
Label: Nonesuch/Warner
Release Date: June 10

THIS IS AN ALBUM that doesn't grip until the third track, Emmylou's self-penned traditional country croak, Broken Man's Lament. Then it all makes sense. Only Emmylou could turn diesel engines and crescent engines into things of beauty. Standouts include her take on Merle Haggard's Kern River and her collaboration with the McGarrigle sisters on Sailing Round The Room. GRAHAM ROCKINGHAM

Lil Wayne

Album: Tha Carter III
Label: Cash Money/ Universal Motown
Release Date: June 10

THE "BEST RAPPER alive" proclamation on Let The Beat Build might be pushing it. "Most eccentric rapper alive" sounds more apropos. Phone Home's alien persona and his wild physician m.o. on Dr. Carter stoop to cartoonish levels. His post-Hurricane Katrina ode Tie My Hands (and, littered with Nina Simone-sampled bits of Don't Let Me Be Misunderstood), the oft-outspoken diatribe Don't Get It shows off a powerful contemplative side. In between is an intricate puzzle that may infuriate but ultimately leaves little doubt His Weezy-ness got his own distinctive way of rhyming. IAN NATHANSON

My Brightest Diamond

Album: A Thousand Shark's Teeth Label: Asthmatic Kitty
Release Date: June 17

WHEN YOU'VE GOT strange hair and hype sheets hailing you as a New York City "chanteuse," you're treading a dangerously fine line between the sublime and the loopy. For the most part, Shara Worden (a.k.a. My Brightest Diamond) stays on the sublime side of the track, especially on the two opening tracks Inside A Boy and The Ice & The Storm. After that, however, every second step seems to cross into the loopy zone. GRAHAM ROCKINGHAM

SOUND CHECK
alan@ongoinghistory.com

The English language is an amazing thing, with around 750,000 words. But we haven't got around to finding names for everything just yet. For example, what do you call those chunks of snow gunk that build up in your car's wheel wells in the winter? Or that part of your golf swing where you realize that you're going to shank it a millisecond before the club strikes the ball?

About a year ago, I was working on a radio show that studied how various bands had come up with their names. However, this particular area of academia didn't have a name. While the study of words is called etymology and the investigation of name origins is known as onomatology, there was nothing that described the study of how, say, a group of Irish high school kids eventually became known as U2.

Looking to secure immortality by placing a word in the Oxford English Dictionary, I consulted Dr. Sheila Embleton, a professor of linguistics at York University in Toronto and a member of The American Name Society.

Then I talked to Marc Hershon, who operates Simmer Branding in Sausalito, Calif., the guy who helped come up with the name "Swiffer" for Proctor & Gamble. With their help, we came up with a name that satisfied our needs.

Alan wonders whether we need a name for the feeling you get when you discover a CD or piece of vinyl that you've spent years searching for.

Hereafter, the study of the origins of the names of musical groups shall be known was bandomynology.

Since then, I've run across certain other music-related things which need names:

» The impatience that comes with the obligatory screaming and clapping between a performer's main set and the encore. Why do they make fans do that?

» The annoyance you feel when a band that's been your special secret suddenly becomes popular.

» The kind of person that still frequents record stores and actually buys CDs.

» Speaking of whom, we need a name for the feeling you get when you discover a CD or piece of vinyl that you've spent years searching for. Hardcore music collectors know exactly what I mean.

» People who insist on wearing gigantic studio-sized headphones while listening to their MP3 players in public. (If you're reading this on public transit, look around. You'll see at least one.)

» The sudden realization that you've just irretrievably lost all your music through a hard drive crash.

Any thoughts? Email me so we can enrich the English language with our, er, onomastic wisdom.

Funniest joke may be Leafs winning

The Love Guru

Stars Mike Myers, Jessica Alba
Director Marco Schnabel

STC

By STEVE GOW
for Metro Ottawa

Mike Myers, left, stars as Pitka in The Love Guru.

REVIEW HAND IT to Mike Myers. At least the guy can create an interesting character. In The Love Guru, Myers stars as Pitka, a self-help swami who hopes a high-profile case will land him a coveted spot on Oprah so he can overtake his life-long competitor Deepak Chopra as the number one guru in the world. That opportunity comes when he's enlisted by the Toronto Maple Leafs to help reconcile their star player with his ex-lover in order to end a goal-slump curse on the way to winning the Stanley Cup (and that is actually NOT intended as one of the jokes).

Okay, nobody said Myers' movies were grounded in reality. Austin Powers certainly only had a modicum of believability, and like Powers, at least The Love Guru showcases Mike's ability to charm us with his quirky characters, even if they are all beginning to seem slightly too familiar.

Mind you, there are some funny moments in The Love Guru.

However, the most notable ones come courtesy of Stephen Colbert who makes a surprising appearance as a drugged-out sports commentator.

As for Myers, he shines more when he's performing a sitar version of Extreme's 1990 ballad "More Than Words" than he ever does ceaselessly dropping bad penis puns or making cracks about soiling himself.

See, the genius of the Austin Powers movies was their clever ability to recycle gags; they worked because they were still within the context of Austin Powers.

Transporting a lot of familiar jokes over to Guru just seems ... well, lazy.

Toss in the fact that Myers even cast his diminutive Austin Powers co-star Vern Troyer so he could exploit a handful of midget jokes and it gets a bit much.

On the other hand, I suppose it's nice to see Myers keeping Mini-Me employed.

My Brother is an Only Child captures more than sibling rivalry

My Brother is an Only Child

Stars Elio Germano,
Director Daniele Luchetti

14A

By STEVE GOW
for Metro Ottawa

My Brother is an Only Child opens this weekend.

REVIEW SIBLING RIVALRY may not exactly be a groundbreaking notion in cinema, but sibling rivalry based on the opposing ideologies of Fascism and Communism in 1960's Italy is ... well, let's just say you don't see that everyday. In My Brother is an Only Child, filmmaker Daniele Luchetti explores the diametrically-opposed ambitions of two brothers of the same family. Whereas older, handsome Manrico (Riccardo Scamarcio) fights for the rights of the working class, little brother Accio (Elio Germano) is an outright Fascist, getting into scraps and idolizing his hero Mussolini. You can obviously see how they might not get along. Intimidated by the politics of 1960s Italy, you say? No worry. As Luchetti has insisted, "the film does not take a political stand; it talks about people who take stands." And it does that well.

Ultimately, My Brother isn't so much about two siblings fighting for their ideologies as it is about two brothers fighting for their identity; a struggle that is heightened once Accio falls in love with Manrico's girlfriend.

Mainly, this film works because Luchetti captures honest moments of realism and humor, particularly between the brothers.

Even if the political details of the day lose you, My Brother still succeeds as an excellent portrait of what it was like to come of age in a place like 1960s Italy — you know, just in case you were wondering.

It's worth the trip

London To Brighton

Stars Lorraine Stanley, Georgia Groome
Director Paul Andrew Williams

By STEVE GOW
for Metro Ottawa

London To Brighton opes in theatres today.

REVIEW A BATTERED WOMAN and a young girl storm into a filthy public bathroom panicked, frightened and clearly on the run. What they're escaping is a mystery, but it's too late.

You're already glued.

So begins the frantic pace of London To Brighton, a gritty thriller by first-time filmmaker Paul Andrew Williams. This finely-crafted drama tells the story of Kelly (Lorraine Stanley), a weathered hooker who grudgingly enlists a pre-pubescent runaway (Georgia Groome) for a wealthy client with criminal ties.

At the last minute, recruiter becomes rescuer when Kelly sweeps in and saves the girl from a life of prostitution. In the process, something terrible happens (which the film does not reveal right away), sending both girls running for refuge from pimps and gangsters.

With London To Brighton, Williams explores the social realism of British life while giving us a suspenseful crime noir. It's an ugly movie with ugly characters and an ugly look, but there is beauty in the depravity, especially in the maternal redemption of the lead character.

This drama boasts an excellent cast and an extremely taut script that has an affinity to the films of Mike Leigh (Vera Drake), only more violent. Made on a shoestring budget, London To Brighton isn't always easy to watch, but it's worth the trip.

A promising start for Get Smart

Get Smart
Stars Steve Carell, Anne Hathaway
Director Peter Segal
PG

By RICK McGINNIS
for Metro Ottawa

REVIEW TO IMAGINE how badly the movie version of Get Smart might have turned out, one need only reflect with a wince on some recent spy movie parodies (Johnny English) or the lower points of Steve Carell's career (Evan Almighty).

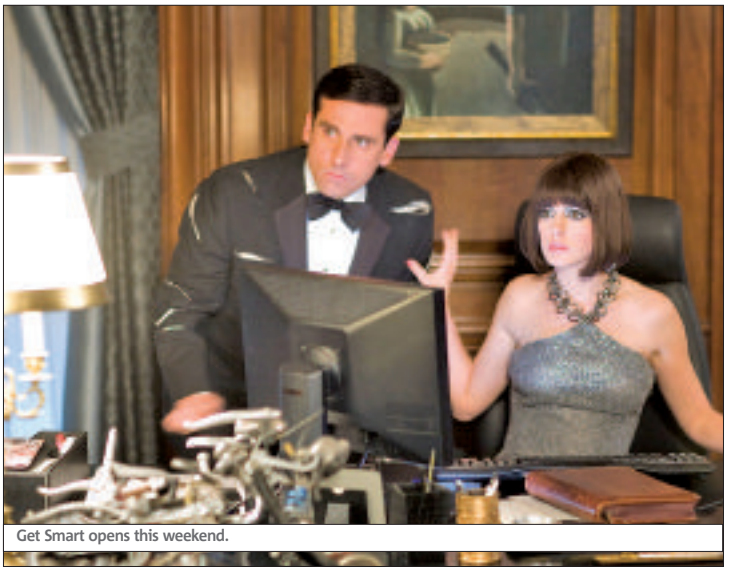

Peter Segal's film manages to avoid either film's dismally unfunny effect, mostly by hewing closely to the spirit of the original TV series starring Don Adams, and by a happy accident of casting.

Carell takes over the role made famous by Adams —Maxwell Smart, the bumbling but cocksure secret agent who succeeds in spite of his best efforts.

Anne Hathaway does a fine job with Agent 99, played by Barbara Feldon in the TV series, ably matching Feldon's innate sexiness; the only real flaw in Hathaway's portrayal is her inability to evoke the fetchingly neurotic quality Feldon brought to the role. It's in the supporting cast, however, that the film creates a sympathetic setting for Carell to make his Smart his own creature and not either a mimicry or a parody of Adams.

The movie teases out all the well-loved props and devices of the show with a coyness that's only occasionally maddening, while Carell noticeably undersells Adams' trademark lines such as "Missed it by that much."

A sequel — broadly hinted at by Patrick Warburton's cameo near the end as Hymie the robot agent — will have to discover its own comic momentum if it wants to avoid turning a promising start into a pale tribute.

Get Smart opens this weekend.

DON'T MESS WITH THE ZOHAN

★★★1/2 (out of 5)

Adam Sandler plays the title role in the film, a sort of Israeli James Bond with a secret dream of styling hair in New York City, who fakes his death and goes off to live his blow-dried, '80s-inspired dream.

Sandler plays Zohan with an Israeli accent so painstakingly bad that it becomes its own joke, as does the film's barrage of Hebrew and Arab slang, most of it invented.

THE HAPPENING

The very great problem with M. Night Shyamalan's films is that once he departs from the nameless dread so painstakingly created in their setup, they've lost most of their reason to exist. The film is a bit of a departure for the director, since he reveals the big premise early on, and not near the end, sparing the audience the eye-rolling revelations that made Signs and The Village so retroactively disappointing.

Unfortunately, that means you can start rolling your eyes and giggling earlier, with the first film that makes itself the punch line to global warming's joke.

THE INCREDIBLE HULK

★★★ 1/2

Ed Norton plays Bruce Banner (a.k.a the Hulk) in this second movie take on Marvel Comic's The Incredible Hulk. The film sets up the scenario quickly — Banner in exile in a favela in Brazil, searching for a cure for his "condition" — and rewards us with a big action set piece and the first appearance of Banner's hulking alter ego within the first half hour. We get the love interest (Liv Tyler), the bad guys (William Hurt and Tim Roth) and the stock conspiracy theory plot mechanism with a secret military program; everything in its place and a place for everything.

INDIANA JONES AND THE KINGDOM OF THE CRYSTAL SKULL

Film fans young and old will be hard-pressed to miss the smile creeping across their face when they hear John Williams' famed score and see that trademark fedora make its first big-screen appearance in 19 years, in a much-anticipated re-introduction to the greatest adventure character of all time. While the dialogue plods at times and a few scenes are more than a little far-fetched, The Kingdom Of The Crystal Skull is pure summertime blockbuster joy.

IRON MAN

★★★★ (out of 5)

Robert Downey Jr. as Iron Man, a.k.a. arms dealer turned good guy Tony Stark, proves he's one of today's best character actors. With a great supporting cast (Jeff Bridges, Gwyneth Paltrow), thrilling action sequences and very funny dialogue, Iron Man is a welcome return to the comic book movie genre.

KUNG FU PANDA

Kung Fu Panda introduces us to Po (Jack Black), a lazy panda who dreams of one day becoming a martial arts master, but is simply too fat and lazy to make it happen. That is until he is crowned the next "chosen one" destined to hold the title of master, only to find himself tagged with the honour, much to the chagrin of the crusty guru Shifu (Stranger Than Fiction's Dustin Hoffman). Kids will love watching a dumb panda fumbling around as he tries to save his village from destruction of a sinister snow leopard.

Mike Myers' latest comedy The Love Guru puts a decidedly Toronto spin on new-age self-help.

Bringing the subject home

Mike Myers always wanted film about Leafs

By BRIAN TOWIE
for Metro Ottawa

FEATURE YOU CAN take the man out of Toronto, but you can't take Toronto out of the man. It was a decidedly Canadian (more specifically Toronto-centric) flavour that actor Mike Myers gave to his latest comedy opus, The Love Guru.

The Saturday Night Live alumnus has always inserted shout-outs to Canada's largest city in previous work such as Wayne's World or his Austin Powers series, but this time his hometown was part of the story.

Filmed in part at the Air Canada Centre and Casa Loma, The Love Guru centres around Guru Pitka (Myers) a new-age self-help expert who has to rejuvenate the confidence of a Toronto Maple Leafs sniper (Romany Malco from the 40-Year-Old Virgin) in the midst of a bid for the Stanley Cup after his wife leaves him for his rival, well-endowed goaltender Jacques "Le Coq" Grande (Justin Timberlake).

For a work so steeped in Canadian culture, Myers isn't worried that international audiences won't be in on the joke.

"Thinking about what people get or don't get, no. It's about what you think is funny, and that's really what I do," says Myers, 45.

"A movie is supposed to take you somewhere you've never been before, and say to you, 'Come on in, the water's warm.'"

> « I was going to use this wonderful blessing I have to make stuff. For those who stay the course and believe, it will be a wonderful day. »
> Mike Myers

Directed by Marco Schnabel (Myers has a history of working with first-timers), the movie is vintage Myers with its carefully crafted pelvic humour, grandiose dance numbers, and merciless teasing of Verne Troyer (who stars as the Leafs' irascible coach) set against a Bollywood backdrop.

But he fashioned the story around one of his greatest fantasies, and the major reason for the movie: a Stanley Cup victory for the Leafs and an end to the 41-years-and-counting cup drought. He notes that at its heart, the film is his ode to Leaf Nation, wherever they may live.

"I, like the rest of Toronto, have been waiting patiently," says Myers, who was only 4 when the Leafs last hoisted the trophy in 1967.

"I figured, 'If you write it, they will come.' I wasn't going to wait for it to happen, I was going to use this wonderful blessing that I have of being able to make stuff.

"For those who stay the course and believe, it will be a wonderful day."

Wall-E, a five-year labour of love

By RICK McGINNIS
for Metro Ottawa

FEATURE IT'S BEEN five years since Andrew Stanton's Finding Nemo, his last movie, hit the theatres. In the same amount of time a director working in live action could have made five more films, but Stanton, one of Pixar's stable of name directors, has spent almost the whole time working on Wall-E, the studio's latest picture, a wildly labour-intensive period typical of how animated features are made, whether back in the golden age of Disney with cel animation, or today, with Pixar's state-of-the-art digital technology.

"I often say that directing animation is just like directing live action but in slow motion," Stanton tells Metro, looking back on the last five years. "You're dealing with human beings that are good at their craft; they all have the same jobs as on a live-action set, they just use a different tool to use that job, whether it's costumes, lighting effect, camerawork. And you don't have the luxury of getting together all at the same moment, saying 'action' and seeing it all come together.

"When you do live action, you do just as much planning, as much talk, just as many people, but then that moment happens on the same day — you shoot it, you're done. Spontaneity is king, and you go with it whether it's sunny or it's raining or whether you planned on clouds, and there's something very invigorating about spontaneity. There is not an ounce of spontaneity in making an animated picture, because it just takes so long. So the winning side of animation is that you have a godlike control of everything. You can basically tweak till the last second. You can go back to things you did two years ago and change it again, or tweak it a little more. You can be quite the perfectionist, and it would be great if you could do both."

RICK McGINNIS/FOR METRO OTTAWA

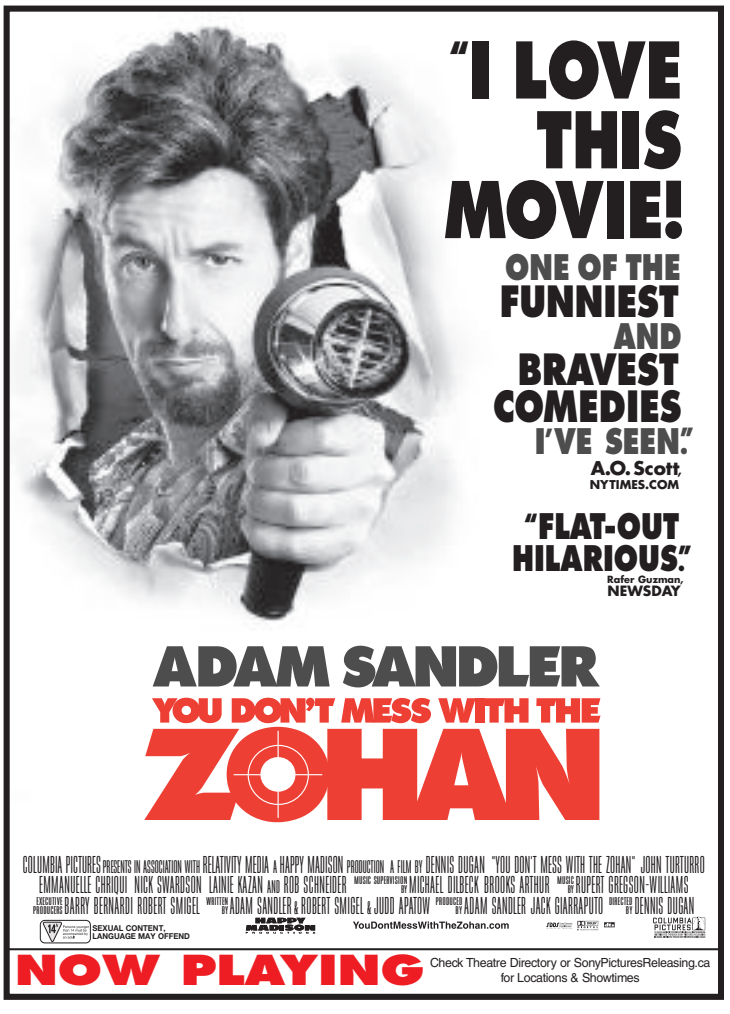

Andrew Stanton, director Wall-E, says he looked at all kinds of robots, including a bomb-sniffing one, as research.

Pixar is famous for its research trips, where the heads of each department go out and collect the textures and movements and feel of the world where the film is set. For Cars, they went out and toured old Route 66; for Ratatouille, it was a trip to Paris to sample the city's best restaurants. Wall-E is set on a future Earth covered with garbage, and in space, and neither place suggested any glamorous research trip, so Stanton admits he delayed his research in favour of spending a few months — his vacation time after Nemo — storyboarding the film at Pixar. Only after he'd gotten the green light did he go out and explore the look of the film.

"We went to dumps, we went to recycling centres," Stanton recalls.

"We looked at any kind of robot we could look at, even if it was the bomb-sniffing robot from the nearby police department. We did go to (NASA's) Jet Propulsion Laboratories and look at some of their rover designs. ... It was a lot of hodgepodge stuff — there wasn't anything really that sexy about it. Cause so much of it was fantasy — you just have to make stuff up."

» Wall-E is in theatres next Friday.

Actor Carell gets Smart

Actor ignored Don Adams' portrayal

By GLEN MILLER
for Metro Ottawa

FEATURE SO HOW DO you go about making a movie derived from an iconic Emmy-Award-winning series and not fall flat on your face like a Maxwell Smart tumble on the floor?

For the generation that grew up on the 1965-70 comedy series Get Smart, it's hallowed ground, but co-screenwriter Tom Astle and company felt totally comfortable indulging in an opportunity to score some points with the old generation of Get Smart fans — and make a film that stands on its own merit as a comedic action film that has romance, too.

"The reason the movie works in this time period is that the original series was done at a time during the Cold War, so there was paranoia in the air. I don't know if anybody has noticed, but there is a little paranoia in society in general now," Astle told Metro. "I think that's what makes it an appropriate time to do this movie now."

While the movie's brain-trust knew they were obliged to pay homage to the original series, there was a conscious decision not to simply produce a direct steal from the series.

> « The original series was done at a time during the Cold War, so there was paranoia in the air . . . (and) there is a little paranoia in society in general now. »
> co-screenwriter Tom Astle

Steve Carell (The Office) had no intention of trying to emulate the legendary Don Adams who starred as Maxwell Smart, Agent 86. So, to prepare, there was no revisiting the old shows.

"I steered away from it because I didn't want to do an impression of Don Adams," Carell said at a press conference in L.A. "I figured there was no way to improve upon what he had done. And I thought the more I watched him, the more I would be inclined to do an impersonation because he was so good and so definitive in the role."

Get Smart, which opens in theatres today, has an abundance of stars to make it sellable: Carell, Anne Hathaway (Agent 99), Alan Arkin (the Chief), Terence Stamp (Siegfried), Dwayne Johnson (Agent 23), not to mention some other famous face cameos.

In the film, Agent 86 and 99 must somehow thwart the plans of world domination by KAOS.

One major difference between the series and movie is that Agent 86 who must prove himself to 99, the senior agent, who isn't thrilled at first to be partnering with the newbie Smart, who serendipitously achieves his career goal to be an agent.

ON THE FLY

» Diehard Get Smart fans will have to have a sharp eye to catch some of the subtle nods to the TV series — one being the flash on the screen showing the name of the airplane Agents 86 and 99 take to fly to Russia. The name of the jet? Yarmy Airlines. Yarmy was Don Adams' real surname.

Historical turns chic in film

FEATURE FOR THOSE READY to move past the endless stream of dark dramas from fall 2007, get ready for a new barrage — from the 1960s, the 1940s and the 1780s.

Studios are preparing to unleash a hailstorm of period movies — in broad terms, films set in an era other than the current — in the fall, at times turning the multiplex circa 2008 into a veritable cinematic museum.

The films range from large studio productions (Clint Eastwood's 1920s missing-child drama Changeling and Baz Luhrmann's World War II epic Australia) to specialty releases (the midcentury Southern tale The Secret Life Of Bees and the 1960s Catholic-school drama Doubt).

> « It seems like Hollywood is merging with the History Channel. »
> Robert Thompson, media critic

They veer from costume dramas (the 18th century Keira Knightley quill-and-wig extravaganza The Duchess) to political sagas (Ron Howard's Frost/Nixon) to 1950s family dramas (the Sam Mendes-Leonardo DiCaprio collaboration Revolutionary Road) to biopics (Gus Van Sant's Milk) to yet more WWII throwbacks (Ed Zwick's Defiance, Mikael Hafstrom's Shanghai and Spike Lee's Miracle At St. Anna).

"It seems like Hollywood is merging with the History Channel," media critic Robert Thompson noted wryly.

Studios have a long tradition of producing movies set in previous eras, from epics like Ben-Hur to intimate stories like The Ice Storm. But the latest wave of period movies is notable for several reasons.

These movies are coming all at once — scores of pictures crammed into a period of just 10 or 12 weeks. The stakes and expectations for these movies also are higher because the overall number of fall specialty releases is expected to be down by as much as 25 per cent from the nearly 70 titles released last year. And, maybe most critical, these period films are being released at a moment when questions linger from last season about whether the audience can find enough to identify with in fall releases.

That combination is enough to make some executives nervous. "It's a lot of period movies, and it's going to be a question of who'll be able to connect," said one high-ranking art-house-studio executive releasing a period film.

Nonetheless, development executives point to reasons why historical is suddenly fashionable despite the risks.

In a time when summer releases have trumped fall movies on spectacle, they say, it's a chance for films to chisel out a new niche. Boxoffice Mojo president Brandon Gray suggests that period pictures are in effect the fall's answer to the summer tentpole.

"A movie set in period can be a selling point because it transports you to another world without being a fantasy or relying on big special effects," he said. REUTERS

Mars remake a saddening bore?

MARS ATTACKS: Bashing ABC's version of Life On Mars, the hit BBC time-travel police drama, is getting to be like self-abuse for me — I know it's probably wrong, and definitely far from productive, but it's a nice stress release, and I probably can't stop myself now, can I?

And right on cue comes a story on the U.K. Guardian's film and TV blog judging the show by its apparently-scrapped pilot — the one they made before original producer and showrunner David E. Kelley dropped out and the setting was changed from Los Angeles to New York in the '70s. James Donaghy, the paper's TV writer, calls it "pretty damn bad," with particular disapproval reserved for Jason O'Mara, the Irish actor who took the role of Sam Tyler, played by John Simm in the BBC original.

INTELLEVISION
RICK McGINNIS
rick.mcginnis@metronews.ca

Donaghy calls O'Mara "an identikit beefcake of no notable ability," whose initial response to discovering that a car accident has rewound him back to 1972 is "as cliched as his blandly rugged mug. He shouts, he barges, his eyes pop. It's all quite tiresome."

He doesn't have much in the way of praise for Rachel Lefevre, who plays the love interest role of Annie Cartwright — a fellow police detective in the U.S. reworking, a lowly Women's Police Constable played memorably by Liz White in the original. She's a "swimwear model with a police badge who appears to have wandered into the building by mistake," and she and O'Mara share a "flatlining sexual chemistry." So far, not so good.

The only apparently good choice made by the show's original producers was casting Colm Meaney as Gene Hunt, a role made memorable — frankly, it was the best thing about the show — by Philip Glenister in the BBC original. Any actor would relish the bombastic leeway Glenister carved out for Gene Hunt, and Meaney is certainly up for the challenge, but according to Donaghy the Hunt role in the ABC version is "criminally underwritten ... He feels like an afterthought. He needs to be rewritten with the understanding that he, not Sam, is the most important character in the show and that it lives or dies on his success. It is remarkable that the producers don't seem to have grasped this."

At this point, if this thing makes it to air I'll perform all of ABBA's Arrival album in a jumpsuit and blond wig.

CH-CH-CH-CHANGES: The observant will probably have noticed the new name that this column ran under as of this week, accompanied by the "kindler, gentler" photo.

I hope I can weather the change from idiot to intelligent with dignity. Metro has also launched a blog, where yours truly will try and fit in all the stuff that can't possibly make it into a daily column.

The web address is metronews.typepad.com/intellivision/ — at least for the moment, though I'm told things might change. I'll keep you posted in case they do — happy reading.

Baby girl for Jamie Lynn

BRITNEY SPEARS' 17-year-old sister Jamie Lynn, star of Nickelodeon's popular TV show Zoey 101,' has given birth to a baby girl, People magazine reported yesterday.

Jamie Lynn

Jamie Lynn Spears gave birth to Maddie Briann yesterday morning at a hospital in Mississippi, the magazine said.

A high school student who lives in Louisiana, Jamie Lynn Spears reportedly met the father, Casey Aldridge, at church. The couple are engaged, People magazine said.

Jamie Lynn Spears' personal publicist was not immediately available for comment. REUTERS

Martha Wainwright steps out from behind her family's shadow and soars!

By Mary Dickie
Contributing Writer

It's not that Martha Wainwright's 2005 debut wasn't everything it should have been: a collection of sharp-tongued, beautiful songs about her turbulent emotional history and relationships with dad Loudon Wainwright III, brother Rufus and mom Kate McGarrigle. It's just that the 32-year-old singer's follow-up is so good that it transcends genres and the famous family thing. On I Know You're Married but I've Got Feelings Too (MapleMusic Recordings/UMG), a brazenly confident Wainwright shows off her songwriting along with her larger-than-life voice, exploring desire, pain, fear and loss in 12 dazzling songs. "I came to this one as an artist rather than someone trying to emerge from the shadow of her family," she explains. "The first album was loaded in that way because that was my story. But on this one, I was able to shed those insecurities." Last year, Wainwright brought down the house with her sultry performance of Stormy Weather at her brother's recreation of Judy Garland's 1961 Carnegie Hall concert. "I see myself as much a singer as a songwriter," she says. "It's fun to get out from behind the guitar and sing a song as perfectly constructed as those standards are and have it be about the performance."

Fashion-Conscious

The world is not a simple place, as Sandy Black explores in Eco-Chic: The Fashion Paradox (Black Dog Books). Our desire for cheap clothes has built a booming global textile market that employs (and often exploits) nearly 30 million people. What Black makes us consider are the trade-offs: Are renewable materials, made from by-products of the oil industry, a better ethical buy than natural fabrics? She shows us how informed consumers who read labels and make ethical demands can push manufacturers into making clothes that are green and fashionable.

The skinny on the four most popular eco-friendly fabrics.

● Organic cotton Unlike regular cotton, which uses chemical defoliants and bleaching dyes, organic cotton is grown without pesticides or chemicals and its dyes are made from vegetable matter. ● Bamboo The latest eco-darling, bamboo creates velvety soft fabrics and is a hardy renewable resource. ● Hemp Banish all thoughts of hemp necklaces! Hemp can be used to create almost anything from purses to dresses. ● Soy Soy filters nitrogen from the air, which reduces greenhouse gas emissions and gives clothes a silky feel. Unlike synthetic materials, all organic fabrics can be easily composted and recycled.

Vibrating mascara wands are latest innovation

Estée Lauder and Lancôme cosmetic companies are both set to launch mascaras with vibrating wands later on this year.

COMING SOON to a makeup counter near you: mascara that vibrates.

According to the global beauty brand Estée Lauder, which will launch Turbo-Lash All Effects Motion Mascara for $30 this summer in the United States, and later this year in Canada, the innovation is designed to separate lashes and create volume at the base of the lash — an area often neglected.

Competitor Lancôme followed up with an announcement that it will release Oscillation this fall, with a brush that vibrates 7,000 times a minute and claims to provide 360-degree coverage of each lash.

Vibrating wands are just the latest innovation in the mascara market, which is worth an estimated $3.7 billion (U.S) globally. To capture some of this long, thick and very plump market, cosmetics companies are constantly introducing new variations on the theme of lash enhancement.

Battery-operated mascaras have been done before — one had an applicator that rotated and another was heated for smoother application — but neither innovation had staying power.

In a 2004 patent application for a vibrating mascara applicator, Estée Lauder argued its vibrating invention is significantly different from past products. So could vibrating wands be the innovation that will create the lush lashes women long for? Or are they just another gimmick designed to up-sell consumers?

We asked makeup artist and beauty educator Dino Dilio for his opinion. And while he hasn't tried the product — samples aren't yet available in Canada — he is optimistic.

"I'm excited," he says, "because when I tell ladies to put on mascara, I tell them to hold the brush at the root and wiggle it. It builds up volume at the roots of the lashes. It seems like that's what this product would do, so I think it would be kinda cool. Everything is getting easier these days."

Kinda cool is one thing, but beauty breakthrough is another. Dilio, a 20-year veteran of the beauty biz, loves the promise of a new primping product, but admits he always returns to classic drugstore-brand mascaras that don't break the bank.

"I think some of them are gimmicks," he says. "Like, the heated wands."

But some products really do what they promise, he says, noting his current mascara pick is L'Oréal's Panoramic, which claims to curl, and actually does so because it contains a hairspray-like ingredient.

A moving musical tribute

GET OUT THERE
KIM MANNIX VERMETTE
kim.mannixvermette@metronews.ca

There is a small sigh, and then a little laugh when Peter Voith reflects on how many hours he and friend Ben Cooper have put into the planning of Wailing For Wheels — a benefit concert in honour of friend Eric Haycock, who recently lost his battle with Muscular Dystrophy.

"It's too many to count, but it's definitely been worth it, and it's something we wanted to do to pay tribute to Eric's life," says Voith.

The "we" includes Voith, Cooper and a long list of some of Ottawa's most talented singer/songwriters including Lindsay Ferguson, Eric Eggleston, Shawn Tavenier, Sarah DeLuca, Tyler Kealey, Anders Drerup and other members of the popular Quarter Life gang.

Together the musicians — all of whom will soon grace various Bluesfest stages — will create a concert with the spirit of The Band's Last Waltz, with proceeds going to support Muscular Dystrophy Canada.

details

» Wailing For Wheels is at the Bronson Centre, 211 Bronson Ave., tonight at 8 p.m. Tickets are $15. For more info, visit wailingforwheels.com.

Voith, who will also be previewing his upcoming CD, says he had been thinking for awhile about how to do a performance that was a bit different than the usual late night bar shows.

Voith had worked as one of Haycock's attendants, and when the 20-year-old passed away in March, Voith realized there was an opportunity to celebrate the life of his friend – an avid music fan – and give something back to the community.

"I think this is going to be a really great show because the musicians here are very serious about what they do and passionate about putting on a good show," says Voith.

Though many of the artists on the bill are longtime friends, others, he's just started to play with recently. Yet he is optimistic there will be a dynamic musical fusion.

"We're going to mix and match on the songs and help each other out. It is fun playing with new people and having such great collaboration."

In addition to the music, there will be a silent auction and raffle to raise money for the charity. It's a fitting time for the show as well, with the Walk for Muscular Dystrophy taking place at city hall on Sunday.

Voith says Haycock was always a big supporter of the local music scene, and he and the performers have planned a moving final number — a cover of Midnight Special, by Haycock's favourite band Creedence Clearwater Revival.

After covering hard news for a few years, Kim discovered her real passion – writing about the wonderful world of music, theatre, visual arts and literature.

CISCO OTTAWA BLUESFEST PACKAGE

From left, Finnish harpist and pianist Iro Haarla, Herbie Hancock and Wynton Marsalis will all play for the Ottawa International Jazz Festival, opening today.

A festival full of jazz superstars

Audiences grateful for diverse talent of top musicians

By KIM MANNIX VERMETTE
for Metro Ottawa

Profile EVERY SUMMER, many of the world's best jazz musicians — and thousands of avid jazz fans — gather in the city for the Ottawa International Jazz Festival.

And according to Catherine O'Grady, executive producer of the festival, this is the year of the jazz superstar.

"I am thrilled with the dynamic artists we have this year because so many of them are among the most exciting jazz artists on the planet," says O'Grady.

"I think this is one of the strongest line-ups we've ever had and certainly a great representation of jazz superstars."

Opening today and running through July 1 at Confederation Park and other downtown venues, the festival boasts a diverse roster of local, North American and international artists, including Wynton Marsalis, Buddy DeFranco and Herbie Hancock, will all play the main stage this opening weekend.

O'Grady says while she is excited about every aspect of this year's fest, she is happy to welcome those artists that don't get to play Canada often, like Finnish harpist and pianist Iro Haarla and Malian musician Salif Keita.

Many of the artists — including Marsalis — have performed at the Ottawa festival before, and O'Grady says she thinks it's the positive atmosphere and appreciative audiences that keep bringing them back.

starting today

» The Ottawa International Jazz Festival runs today through July 1 at Confederation Park and other downtown venues. For tickets and a schedule of concerts visit ottawajazzfestival.com.

"This isn't New York or Chicago and we can't just walk down the street to the Lincoln Center and see these artists whenever we want, so the audiences are really grateful and appreciative," says O'Grady. "I think the musicians generally appreciate that enthusiasm."

One such appreciative festival patron is Pat Graham, who has been coming to the jazz fest since it was a "much smaller affair at the beginning."

She recalls fondly seeing rising stars, like Diana Krall, play the fest before they were big names.

"She had her hair down covering her face and she didn't even sing, but she played that piano with a fury," says Graham.

"I have so many great memories and I love it every year."

Graham says she's "one of those people with the lawn chairs" who arrive early, stake their claim on the lawn in front of the main stage, and get ready to see a great show.

And she loves the late-night jam sessions too, which, this year have moved to the Crowne Plaza Hotel.

New to the festival this year is a series of free lunchtime panel discussions at the NAC Fourth Stage called Jazz Matters, which bring distinguished jazz journalists and academics together for a series of talks O'Grady thinks will be "enlightening and interesting."

Gold Circle passes for the festival sold out in record time — three weeks after they went on sale — but O'Grady says there are still plenty of tickets available. As in past years, Canada Day concerts at Confederation Park are free.

The emerald catalyst

Absinthe takes centre stage in new show

if you want to go...

» The Ottawa Fringe Festival runs until June 29. Advance tickets are available online (www.ottawafringe.com) or by contacting the office (613-232-6162). You can only buy advance tickets up to the day before the performance.
» For more, visit www.ottawafringe.com.

Absinthe, alternatively persecuted and revered for its potency as a psychoactive alcoholic drink, is the catalyst for a group of unique personalities to emerge in the play, A Leave Of Absinthe.

Created and produced by local outfit Mutatis Mutandis, the play stars the "Absinthe Collective," which includes Richard Gelinas, David Hersh, Teri Rata Loretto, Margo MacDonald and David Whitely. Annalee Flint is the stage manager.

Set in Paris in 1888, at the "green hour" (which refers to 5 p.m., when people begin drinking the emerald liquor), the play explores how people react when imbibing. Absinthe has an extremely high alcohol content, and is derived from herbs, including wormwood. It was extremely popular during the time ALOA is set, and was reportedly enjoyed by artists like Oscar Wilde and Vincent Van Gogh.

In the play, the characters include Salis, Allais, a nurse, a prostitute, a "scandalous woman," a mental patient, a poet, a painter, a singer and a murderer, and of course, a guinea pig.

ALOA was born as a result of a challenge among the cast members, who are involved with the Company of Fools, to write a play by April 12. It was Loretto who came up with the name. The play is not only entertaining, Loretto says, but it is educational, and Ottawa Fringers will learn everything they ever wanted to know about absinthe and its contextual history.

"We put all these crazy historical characters together," Loretto says, adding that drinking absinthe was regarded as sinful, especially for women.

ALOA's first performance took place on June 13 in Montreal, and Loretto says it was well-received.

Ottawa's Fringe Festival is the ideal venue for continuing ALOA's run. "For us, it is the opportunity to try anything without judgment," Loretto says. "We think we're delivering a deal for the money, and it's a safe environment for us."
» ALOA will run June 22-29 at the Arts Court Theatre.

A night of wedded bliss?

Play focuses on misconceptions

By KATE CHAPPELL
for Metro Ottawa

Despite the hype and anticipation surrounding a new couple's wedding night, more often than not, reality fails to meet expectations.

Left alone in the wake of months of planning and then the ceremony itself, the couple is usually overwhelmed and lusting after sleep rather than one another. Ottawa writer Nadine Thornhill, inspired by this decided lack of fireworks facing nascent nuptials, has crafted a play called The Wedding Night.

"Basically, what happens on the wedding night is the reverse of what you'd expect in the situation," Thornhill says.

The Wedding Night stars Kate Smith, Joe Marques, Ali Gratian, Mark McPherson and Rachelle Todd, and focuses on two couples and one office administrator.

In the play, Gabrielle Modernizer (Kate Smith) gets married to Benjamin Hansberger (Joe Marques) despite a vow never to do just that. Their wedding night unfolds as a series of challenged misconceptions, including being privy to hearing a particularly loud couple in the next hotel room.

Thornhill, herself a mother and wife, was drawn to write this play after experiencing the demands and preconceived notions society places on those roles. She was married eight years ago and now has a son.

She examines these roles through the lens of the wedding night. "There is an expectation of great sex and fireworks, and sometimes that is just not happening."

Thornhill is a veteran of the Toronto and Waterloo Fringe Festivals, and has attended many Ottawa Fringe Festivals, but this will be her first time as a participant.

"I love all the Fringe festivals. You get such a diverse mix of theatre. There are always new artists, writers and directors emerging. It's a party atmosphere," Thornhill says.

And while Ottawa is often characterized as a conservative town, Thornhill says the theatre community is daring and diverse, with the Fringe Festival being the ultimate place to air new creations.
» The Wedding Night opens in the Academic Hall tonight at 8 p.m. and runs until June 29.

Question of faith

By KATE CHAPPELL
for Metro Ottawa

Although In The Year Of Our Lord 1495 is set more than 500 years ago, the play's subject matter — good and evil, religion, and faith — continues to resonate in today's society.

Written by Ottawa native Marie Robertson — who is also director of the award-winning Troupe de la Lune, which produced the play — In The Year takes place in a French village. The story centres around Father Francis and his young assistant Elizabeth, who try to purge the village of witches and demons.

The central characters are a farmer named Louis and a Gypsy Margalie, who befriend one another as they await their trial and undergo torture in jail. The context of the play is the fearful environment that existed among Christians and those accused of being a witch.

"This is the ultimate subject," Robertson says of the play that has been eight years in the making. "And religion-wise, it is very relevant to what is going on today."

Roberston, 25, is a government worker by day, and has been writing since she was a young girl. She has been involved in theatre for six years, and appreciates the ability to be creative.

"I enjoy telling a story and making it come to life," Robertson says. And the Fringe Festival offers just such an opportunity, and an equal one for that matter. "I like that anybody has a chance to perform."

This is Robertson's second appearance at the Ottawa Fringe Festival. Troupe de la Lune originated in Sault Ste. Marie, and last year performed Life, Love and the Pursuit of Harlequin.

Jennifer vs. Jennifer?

Feuding beauties: Jennifer Aniston allegedly threatened to pull out of a magazine photo shoot if co-star Jennifer Connelly joined her on the front cover, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The actress had agreed to appear in a new issue of Marie Claire magazine to promote the movie He's Just Not That Into You but reportedly didn't want Connelly featured in the main photographs. However, Aniston was happy to pose alongside other female co-stars Drew Barrymore and Ginnifer Goodwin.

"She threatened to pull out if Jennifer was part of the cover. It was all about getting Jennifer Aniston front and centre and looking as sexy as possible," a source told Life And Style Weekly magazine.

Insiders on the movie set claim the two Jennifers didn't hit it off while working together. "There was no camaraderie between those two whatsoever. They didn't seem like friends in the slightest," a source said.

Aniston's representative has denied the story, insisting the two actresses became friends on the movie and the magazine requested she pose alone. METRO NEWS SERVICES
